The fire had extinguished itself on arrival and was cool to the touch. The fire is of a suspicious nature and is being treated as arson, the sheriff's department said.

The Neosho County sheriff also reported working several fires over the weekend, with three structures and hay bales set ablaze on Saturday morning.

The investigation into the fires continues. Anyone with

Karen Drisdell, State Farm representative, hands a dollar to a woman at Lincoln Preschool during the insurance agency's Bucks for Buckles program. State Farm representatives could be seen at the schools last week giving out $1 bills to drivers who have themselves and their children belted in. The reps gave out $275 in Humboldt and Chanute. State law requires buckles. Teens ages 14-17 unbuckled in a moving vehicle can be fined $60.
